[Written for the Oregonian.]

Passage from New York to Portland

Here we sit on the deck of the old tub Champion. Faces lengthen, and women grow lugubrious, as one of God's images in ebony, going in hand, sings out, "all ashore!" Friends rush over gang-plank to the end of the pier, as we steam slowly away, and lo! our cousin Walter, more ambitious than others, essays the apex of a towering pile, he sits upon the point, with nasal linen floating in the breeze. God bless you, old fellow, may you and she up town be happy forever!

Mute farewells are waved and we go merrily out to sea. But why this sudden seeking of the vessel's sides, these heavings, like those at an old-fashioned barn-raising, and these invocations of the Deity, from tongues English, Irish, French, German and Israelitish? Neptune is omnipotent; not he of our classical fancy, skimming over the waves in airy chariot, drawn by flying Flora Temples, but a vile old customer, ever calling for more victuals. Some one, still blessed with retentive powers, strikes up, 'Rocked in the cradle of the Deep.' This is a good little old thing enough to sing on land, but to tell by what mental law the author of it ever associated tumbling at the mercy of the waves with Mother's lullaby and Godfrey's Cordial, would puzzle an Upham or a Stewart. He or she (gender not known) that wrote it, must have been fatored with a step-mother in early infancy: otherwise, such a stretch of fancy should have been followed by a vigorous application of 'the cats.' Our disgust at poetic license grows with contact with reality. We have a dim recollection of Virgil's episode with the pilot Palinurus—he to whom second-rate politicians are wont to liken themselves, in their gubernatorial efforts with the ship of State. We think the story runs, that, lured by slumber, he slipped from his post down through the waves to dance with the nymphs, on sea-green carpets below. This may be so, but we incline to the belief that the rough sea, forcing him to heave, he heaved a trifle too hard, and went over-board. However, be this for the learned, and pass we on.

Having paid tribute, some on deck, and others more modest in state-rooms, we go down to dinner, and oh! such eatables! Well may Vanderbilt's ears tingle at the curses of mate passengers, and well may we be happy that we cannot foresee the hashes and re-hashes into which these same meats and vegetables are to be metamorphosed for our inspection, before we reach Aspinwall. For instance: that piece of roasted chicken shall appear to us, on two other occasions, as boiled and stewed: but the cook disguise it as he will with sauce and soup, we shall know it by that huge bunch of feathers, not one incipient quill plucked away. But people have grumbled before: in reply to which, said Vanderbilt grins over his monopoly, and consigns the dear public to a locality several degrees warmer than the tropics. And now, should this meet the eye of some sentimental young couple, who meditate a joyful honey-moon upon the briny deep, let us give them a word of advice; our 'Life on the Ocean Wave' fits us so to do: Don't occupy the same state-room, if you've lived on romance of the moonshine cast, and wish the illusion to last; for, when you behold that other one with whom you've read Tom Moore in the gathering twilight, devoted to a little tin utensil, that hangs crane-like to the berth, for the sea-sick, depend upon it, any shallow fancy will take to itself wings, and go. If, on the other hand, the young love survive this test, you may rest assured that it is good for life.

But here we are at the Isthmus. We land. We are a married man, as before indicated, ergo, we have an assortment of carpet-bags, bundles, band-boxes, &c., &c. We are met by innumerable darkies, who labor under the impression that we have a supply of quarters, which we are anxious to disburse, for their especial benefit. Packages are vanishing from our unwilling grasp, when, luckily, we bethink ourselves of a 'Lincoln Rail,' that we have in charge for a brother on the Western shore. We deposit sundry blows upon the craniums of our sable adherents, and find ourselves alone with our baggage; thus, while Abraham attends to the 'almighty nigger' at home, we, in our humble way, wield the badge of his early power over the pate of Sambo, in New Granada. Summoning back the necessary auxiliaries, we proceed to the Howard House, and sup royally on tomatoes and very feeble tea, cheap at a dollar.

Legal Notice.
In the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon for Multnomah County. A. M. A. Blanchet, Complainant, vs. Oswald Travaillot, Defendant. In Chancery.
TO OSWALD TRAVAILLOT, Defendant: You are hereby notified that A. M. A. Blanchet has this day filed in my office his Bill of complaint, and commenced a suit against you, in which he claims that on the tenth day of June, A. D. eighteen hundred and fifty-seven, you made and delivered to him a certain promissory note for the sum of six hundred dollars, payable ten months after date, with interest at the rate of two per cent. per month, and at the same time made, executed and delivered a certain mortgage deed upon lots numbered three and four in block number three, in Couch's claim or addition to the City of Portland, in the county aforesaid, as security for the payment of said note; and complainant prays for a decree of foreclosure and for the sale of the said mortgaged premises to pay the amount due upon said mortgage deed. The sum of six hundred dollars and interest as aforesaid since the twentieth of September, A. D. eighteen hundred and fifty-nine, and for a judgment against you for any balance which may remain unpaid after the application of the proceeds of the sale of said property for the payment of said debt; and you are further notified that unless you appear in the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon for the County of Multnomah on the second Monday of November, A. D. 1861, and plead, answer or demur to the said bill of complaint, the same will be taken as confessed, and the prayer thereof will be granted by the Court.
In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the seal of the Court this 12th day of August, A. D. 1861.

The Southerners on Naturalization

The Secessionists and the men here who now oppose the action of our Government in regard to the great rebellion, have ever been and are now, full of pretended friendship for our foreign-born citizens But the hollowness and insincerity of these pretensions has been discovered by many of our naturalized fellow-citizens. Many of them have opened their eyes to the fact that these pretended friends are not only regardless of their interests as foreigners, but positive enemies to their civil freedom; and that, if the Secession spirit should now prevail, it would be the end of our present system of naturalization, and the disenfranchisement of our foreign born population. That this is no unauthorized statement, we refer to Dr. Russell's letter to the London Times, of June 20th, an authority not suspected of sympathy with us, and for the benefit of those who may not have seen the letter referred to, we extract the following

SUGGESTIVE CONVERSATION TO GENERALS AND BRIGADIERS

My companion was a very intelligent Southern gentleman, formerly editor of a newspaper. We talked of the crime of the country, of the brutal shootings and stabbings which disgraced it. He admitted their existence with regret, but he could advise no remedy. "The rowdies have rushed in upon us, so that we can't master them."

"Is the law powerless?"

"Well, sir, you see these men got hold of those who should administer the law, for they are too powerful or too reckless to be kept down."

"That is a reign of terror—of mob ruffianism."

"It don't hurt respectable people much; but I agree with you, it must be put down."

"When? how?"

"Well, sir, when things are settled, we'll just take the law into our own hands. Not a man shall have a vote unless he's American born, and, by degrees, we'll get rid of these men who disgrace us."

"Are not many of your regiments composed of Germans or Irish—of foreigners, in fact?"

"Yes, sir"

I did not suggest to him the thought which rose in my mind, that these gentlemen, if successful, would be very little inclined to abandon their rights while they had arms in their hands, but it occurred to me as well that this would be rather a poor reward for the men who were engaged in establishing the Southern Confederacy The attempt may fail, but assuredly I have heard it expressed too often to doubt that there is a determination on the part of the leaders in the movement to take away the suffrage from the men whom they do not scruple to employ in fighting their battles If they cut the throats of the enemy, they will settle their own interests at the same time, or soon afterward—a capital recompense to their emigrant subjects!

WHO IS TO BLAME.—The daily Secession sympathizer thinks that the war is going to be very expensive, and draws a lively picture of the horrors of war This attempt to work on the feelings of people is about as emphatically "played out" as the political chances of the members of the Peace Party—a new organization just formed, to comfort Jeff Davis, and embarrass the Union cause. It is more than likely that the shameful attempt to frighten the loyal citizens of this State by pictures of desolation, will fall on unheeding ears, as it is distinctly understood that all those who are now crying "peace," would, in case of Jeff Davis' success, be the keenest for war Besides, they are at heart "sympathizers," and everybody knows what that means.

Now if there is to be such horrible consequences flowing from the war, who is to blame? Who started it? Who encouraged—and now encourage—the traitors? Are not the answers to the two last questions Jeff. Davis and his tribe—Joe Lane and his tribe—and to the first, both of these tribes? The Union men will bear their part of the responsibility of this war, can the sympathizers say as much?

Letters from the Nez Perces Country.

No. 2.

ELK CITY, W. T. Aug 19th, 1861.

The confluence of Newsom's, Elk, American and Red Creeks, forms a stream of considerable volume,—one of the main branches of the South Fork. Down these waters the hardy prospectors have been to where they break through the great mountain ridge which has been mentioned as the principal obstruction to travel to Elk City. At this point there is an impassable canon. Below it the river runs into a more open country, which is easily accessible from Lewiston. At a point ten miles above the place where the trail to Elk City crosses the South Fork, some very valuable discoveries of gold have been made The gold is found in large bars, and is very fine,—nearly as much so as Oro Fino dust, but apparently of much better quality. I saw two of the first prospects obtained at these diggings; one of about $4,50 which was taken out with a cradle in about two hours and the other, $37,50, which was washed out in a cradle, by two men in two days. The parties engaged there are much encouraged by the prospects, and feel sure of making fair wages, and of a wide field for labor

These diggings are really, and should be called,—the South Fork diggings Those farther to the east should be known by the names of the creeks on which they are situated. As to the conveniences for working these last discoveries, they are infinitely superior to those at Oro Fino or the southern mines There is an abundance of fine timber, (which is not found anywhere else in the upper gold range,) and limited water-power, and a good wagon-road can be built to them through an open country, without trifling obstructions

THE SOUTH FORK—ITS BRANCHES

A very mistaken idea has prevailed as to the nomenclature of rivers and the geography of the lands included in the flowage of the Clearwater. There is no such stream as the Lo Lo Fork of Clearwater. The stream of that name is a tributary of the St Mary's River, which flows into the Bitter Root River The stream called Lo-Lo is the North or Salmon Fork of the South Branch of Clearwater Its junction with the South Fork of the same stream is about 15 miles below the crossing of the Elk City trail, and in Long 115° 30' W from Greenwich, and Lat. 46° 30' N (In a former letter I placed the American Creek mines near the meridian of 116° W from Greenwich This I am convinced is a mistake These diggings are about the intersection of the parallel of 46° N Lat with the meridian of 115° W from Greenwich.) Ten miles up the South fork the Middle Fork comes into it This Fork has never been prospected, so far as I have heard It is easily reached by a wagon road, and is probably as rich as any other branch of the Clearwater. Next to the South Fork of Clearwater comes Salmon River and from the imperfect surveys and reconnoissances of the Government, I am led to think that the Northern tributaries of Salmon River are but an inconsiderable distance from the American Creek Mines No party has yet been in that direction, in the upper part of the gold range, but lower down several small parties have been out prospecting. If the extensive country drained by the waters of the Salmon River should prove as rich as the Clearwater country, a field for profitable mining enterprise, second to California will be opened. It is certain that the country presents the same indications of gold as that which at present is being worked.

MASSACRE OF EMIGRANTS.—The Sacramento Union, of August 28th, received by last night's stage, says "A letter from Lake states that the rumored massacre of emigrants at Goose Lake, by Indians has been confirmed by the arrival of the only survivor at that place. He reports that fourteen families, numbering one hundred men, women and children, were all but butchered. No particulars are given, and we still hope the horrible tale may prove untrue, or at least greatly exaggerated.

Levi Keyes, formerly of Oregon but lately of Red Bluff was killed by the explosion of the J. H. McClelland on the Sacramento. His brother had gone down from Oregon to be treated for a cancer in San Francisco and he had been tasse him, and was on his return.

The Confederates are reported to be still at work on mounting heavy guns at Sewell's Point, and it is expected at the fortress that after a few days a trial of their strength will be made against the United States war vessels and against the fortress.

Senator Nesmith arrived at Salem on Tuesday, by the stage.

Letter from Walla Walla

WALLA WALLA, August 30, 1861

EDITOR OREGONIAN: Since I [illegible] last, nothing of importance has transpired save some little Indian excitement, which, I find by the papers, is much magnified by the time it reaches you There are various ways for accounting for this. The withdrawal of the military from the various posts in the Indian country, affords a fruitful source for creating alarm Business men of all grades and professions are interested in getting up these exciting stories. For instance, the liquor vender wants the soldiers to drink his liquors the gambler wants them to bet his ill-gotten earnings of the troops, to enlarge his hoard the restaurant wants the higher grades to sell them their outfits for the parlor the toilet et cetera. Thus you see, the people of Corvallis the Dalles, and Cascades, are very much interested in manufacturing these alarms. It is true, two cases of murder have been committed not near the Cascades. The offenders have been given up by their chiefs and the execution of the sentence has been approved by him, without showing any disposition to screen the offenders.

A great deal of mischief has been committed between this place and Snake River, by unprincipled white men, and the blame attached to the Indians. A Californian (or, as he is called here, "Sailor Jack,") met two men in the high way. He asked the first one he came to if he had a pistol. He was answered in the affirmative and he kindly requested a wish to see it. It was handed over to him. He then wanted to know if he had any money, the traveler replied a little. Jack then demanded its surrender. The amount proved to be $14. Turning to this man's companion Jack wished to know if he had any money, and being answered in the affirmative, the man was told to "shell out," which he reluctantly did. A ring was also taken from the man's finger. After coolly pocketing these articles, Jack turned on his heel to find another victim

This same man, "Sailor Jack," in a drunken spree took a horse belonging to another person, and after proceeding some two or three hundred yards with it, cut both ears off and then cut the animal's throat There has been a good deal of complaint in this vicinity about horse stealing, and in some instances it has been charged to the Indians, while the general belief is that the horse stealing is justly chargeable to bad white men

Now I give it as my opinion that if any difficulty arises between the whites and the Nez Perces Indians, that bad white men will be to blame for it. The introduction of whiskey, and the breaking of the seventh commandment will be the principal causes. They are a dignified and high minded race of Indians, and are much superior in every respect to any of the tribes on the coast

The miners about Oro Fino and Pierce Cities, except such as have been named in our paper by Mr. Robbins, are fast being deserted and new diggings sought for at the South Fork of Clearwater Business, at the two first named places, is very much overdone Some of the merchants anticipating more favorable times, are removing their goods from the former places to the latter. There seems to be an oversupply of almost everything except flour. A good many of the saloon keepers, it is said, will get rid of their whiskey, and become their own consumers. Some note it.

Adieu, yours, D J S

Capture of the Pirates of the Petrel

The steam gunboat Flag, Commander Sartori, arrived at this Navy Yard yesterday from the Gulf having on board thirty six pirates being the officers and part of the crew of the privateer Petrel, formerly the revenue cutter General Clinch, which was stolen from the United States by the authorities of Charleston S. C. soon after the secession of that State. We learn that the Petrel was sunk by the frigate Sabine, which left this port in May last, to form one of the blockading fleet, and sailed for Charleston While cruising off the harbor of Charleston the Petrel came out and, mistaking her for a merchant ship, ashore port-holes were closed and her sails set merchantman fashion, made directly for her The officers of the Petrel were watched by the officers of the Sabine who occupied the poop deck and their uniforms soon undeceived the crew of the privateer. Nevertheless, she came on and when within range fired a gun loaded with grape, which was evidently aimed at the officers, as the ball passed just above their heads and took away a part of one of the sails. A solid shot was fired from the privateer immediately after, which went into one of the port-holes of the frigate without doing any serious damage

By the time the second gun was fired the crew of the Petrel was beat to quarters, and preparations made to give the pirates a warm reception. Twelve of the large guns of the frigate were fired at the Petrel, several of which struck her A shell hit her under the bow, making a large hole in her and one or two solid shot did almost equal execution The water pouring into her through the holes thus made in a few minutes she sunk Her officers and crew took to the water some in their haste saving what was convenient to help them to escape The boats of the frigate were soon lowered and manned, and directions given to pick up the pirates Some of them were found in a state of exhaustion and half dead with fright. They preferred however to trust to the mercy of their captors and of the United States Government, than risk an attempt to reach the shore

From the crew it was ascertained that there were forty four on board the Petrel, so that eight of the crew were either killed by the firing into the vessel, or were afterwards drowned. As soon as the St. Lawrence left with the Flag, the pirates were transferred to her, to be brought to this port, and so left an accession to the population of the Fort made a rather crowded condition for it, and put additional labor upon the officers of the steamer in guarding the pirates, there not being any marines on board the Flag to perform that duty They were ironed at the wrists both hand feet but the irons were removed from the feet in daytime The Flag, since she left this port, has been cruising between Charleston and Savannah, assisting in the blockade Sometimes she would run in as far as to be just outside of the range of the guns of Fort Sumter, and drew its fire. The Flag is represented to be in first rate condition and well manned

On the 27th of June last, the Flag sighted one of the rebel steamers off Tybee Island and caused her to beat a hasty retreat by a broad side had been poured into her. She captured a vessel attempting to break the blockade off Charleston harbor, and put a prize crew on board This vessel and the prize crew of nine persons was afterward captured by one of the rebel steamers.

The commander of the Petrel was a Charleston pilot, Harvey, one of the Lieutenants was also a pilot.

Several of the crew are Philadelphians and several from New York, while more than half of them are of Irish birth, or the sons of Irishmen. Most of them say they were pressed into the service The gunner is a Dane by man, and has been but a few months in the country Harvey, one of the officers, says that he had not anything to do, and had a insane sister to support. The appearance of the crew would seem to prove their story, that they were either pressed into the service, or were forced to enter from necessity Some of them have been engaged in Hands on coasters, others have been at whaling work The officers of the Flag say that they have behaved themselves on board and have not given any unnecessary trouble.

The story as told by the crew in respect to the attack on the St Lawrence and the sinking of the Petrel, differs somewhat from the first reported They say that the Petrel went out of Charleston harbor on Saturday morning and first saw the St Lawrence early on the day morning, they supposed her to be an East Indiaman, as her ports were closed. When they had got nearer the mistake was discovered, the Captain then went below and took a glass of brandy, and coming up said they would give her one shot anyhow, and directed the gunner to fire, which he did, throwing the grape as stated, over the heads of the officers The men described the firing of the broadside of the St Lawrence as like cutting the Petrel all to pieces. The men took to the boats as soon as the vessel was discovered to be sinking, and they were fired into with small shot from the St Lawrence before a flag of truce was raised.

CITY.

CHARITABLE DONATIONS.—We understand that the various proprietors of Book Stores in this city will donate a number of books for the use of the Insane. Those charitably disposed towards this unfortunate class of our community, will perform a generous and Christian act by donating their mite. Any articles of the above kind received will be held in trust as property belonging to the State. They should be sent to Drs. Hawthorne & Loryea on or before the Inauguration, Friday, September 13th, 1861.

JEWISH NEW YEAR.—The Israelites all over the world, will celebrate their New Year, tomorrow and next day, commencing this evening—being five thousand six hundred and twenty-two years from the creation of the world, according to the Mosaic era. It is generally observed by them in closing their places of business and attending Synagogue.

SAILS TO-DAY.—The steamer Cortes sails this evening, at four o'clock, for San Francisco.

ON TRANSPORT DUTY.—The U. S. Steamship Massachusetts, now on the Sound, has been ordered to proceed to Steilacoom, thence to Fort Vancouver, to take on a quantity of clothing and arms, destined for the use of the Volunteers mustered into service in California.

A FINE CONFESSION.—An active sympathizer with the Southern rebellion and a supporter of McConnell for Governor, declared yesterday that if forced to take up arms he would shoulder his gun for the South. This would be true if applied to seven-tenths of the men in this State who are going to vote for McConnell, and yet they hypocritically profess to be Union men. As between the Federal Government and the Southern Confederacy they would shoulder their rifle in favor of the Confederacy. Now, we ask in all candor, whether such men can be considered loyal citizens or friends of the Union? Are they not, to all intents and purposes, as clear secessionists as if they had voted for a Secession Ordinance or enlisted in the army of Jeff. Davis? It is only location which makes the distinction. In Missouri these peace advocates would be in arms against the Provisional Government and the Federal authorities. The people of the State ought to beware of all such Union men.—Sacramento Union.

ONE IN TEN THOUSAND.—It is said that Judge Wayne, of the United States Supreme Court, through a citizen of Georgia, is now in Washington for the purpose of taking his accustomed seats upon the bench.

DIED:

In this city, Sept. 3d, 1861,—Nellie Annie, child daughter of W. P. Abrams, aged 10 months and 8 days.

The funeral will take place at nine o'clock this morning from the residence of the family, near the Academy.

Hostetter's Celebrated Stomach Bitters.—A specific for Dyspepsia, diarrhœa, dysentery, general debility, chills and fever, liver complaint, bilious remittent fevers, and the pains and weakness, which creep upon us in old age. For these ailments we quietly invited a trial and a verdict. The trial has come off, the verdict has been rendered, and the Bitters are to-day the most popular remedy for the time they have been in existence, in this or any other country. It lives and continues to thrive and increase in popularity with marvelous rapidity. Simply because the world wants it, will have it, cannot do without it. The despotic demands of us this only help the victims of dyspepsia or dysentery believe it, the billious sufferer dare not let one bottle run out before he gets another. Both sexes, all ages, all classes, regard it as the most wonderful invigorant ever compounded. Hence the enormous demand. Sold everywhere by Druggists, Liquor Dealers, and Grocers.

The Medical and Surgical Institute of DR. L. J. CZAPKAY is already secured in a position which places it, as well as its proprietor, far above the assaults of envy and professional malice. In the schools of France, the highest prizes are often awarded to practitioners in this department of medical science, and they occupy, with others, an equally lofty position in the profession. Ricord is an illustrious example, a shining light among the physicians and surgeons of his age in Europe, and Dr. Czapkay is fully equalled by him in his country; as a proof of which, the Philadelphia College of Medicine complimented him with a Diploma and the honorary attendant degree. Selecting this as his field of operation, although qualified as a graduate of the University of Pesth, and late Chief Surgeon of the Hungarian Revolutionary army, for more extended labors, Dr. L. J. Czapkay has bent his earnest attention to the cure of chronic and private diseases, in which he has become so great an expert, that he is now regarded as the LEADER in this branch of his profession throughout the United States, and his portrait and biography are published as a matter of interest to their readers in the most exclusive journals. The Doctor's offices are at his Medical and Surgical Institute, on Sacramento street, corner of Leidesdorff, nearly opposite the buildings of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, San Francisco. We call particular attention of our readers to the sworn certificates of remarkable cures, in another column of this paper. Persons not wishing to lose time in corresponding, please enclose $20 in their letters, and they will get immediate attention to their cases. Address, L. J. ARREST OF AN ADJUTANT GENERAL OF THE REBEL ARMY.—The Cincinnati Commercial of August 8th, says:—"While promenading Fourth street, yesterday afternoon, Colonel J. V. Guthrie, of the first Kentucky, saw a gentleman whom he thought he recognized as Colonel Tyler, late of the United States Army, but now an Adjutant General in the Rebel Army. So strongly was he impressed with this idea that he turned and followed. Presently he met Captain Dickerson, and upon consultation they were both satisfied that Col Guthrie was right in his surmise. Thereupon Colonel Guthrie approached Colonel Tyler and claimed him as a prisoner of war. Tyler appeared to be somewhat astonished but confessed his name and rank in Beauregard's army, and said that 'having been a citizen, and without a time to did not anticipate an arrest.' Colonel Guthrie delivered his prisoner to Captain McLean, Assistant Adjutant General of this Department, who conveyed him to the Newport Barracks, and telegraphed to General Scott for further instructions. Colonel Tyler asked to be placed on parole, but Captain McLean refused to grant the request until he heard from headquarters. Captain Tyler came to this city yesterday morning, for the ostensible purpose of visiting his wife, who has been boarding in the city all summer. Mrs. Tyler is said to be the daughter of Dr. J. S. Wright, of this city. It is also reported that she telegraphed to her husband both at Louisville and Nashville, not to come on as it was dangerous. But it seems that neither of these dispatches reached their place of destination. Captain Tyler graduated at West Point in the class of 1848, and served in the cavalry service until the breaking out of the rebellion, when he resigned. He was then at Fort Kearny? He is a member of General Beauregard's staff, and served at Manassas as Adjutant General. At the Burnett House, he registered "C. S. Tyler, Va."

This is one of the most mysterious performances that has happened since the rebellion began. It is incomprehensible. For what could induce an officer high in rank, and serving in the last great battle, to go where he was certain to be arrested and tried for his life? It is certainly a remarkable instance of putting one's head in the lion's mouth.

A private letter, from a trustworthy source in Virginia, (says the New York Tribune) declares that the rebels have 1,100 contrabands—rescued from the Norfolk Navy Yard—planted in various positions to guard the approach to Richmond, and that between 200 and 300 contrabands are now mounted upon the heights of Manassas.

It is reported that about 100 Federal troops, who deserted after the late battle, are now working as day laborers for farmers in Prince George's county, Virginia.

CERTIFICATE.—Prompted by an honest desire of [illegible] I wish to lay before the public a case which deserves [illegible] mendation not only as an act of scientific skill, but [illegible] humanity also. About two years ago, I suddenly, [illegible] causes unknown to me, was seized with a fit of [illegible] which owing to my inability to meet the expense [illegible] me upon a thorough medical treatment, and [illegible] agement which I met with on attempting it, would [illegible] such. I was then led to believe, as to defy the [illegible] physician.
